

To our Subscribers, Correspondents, and Exchanges in the Southern Confederacy.

We have to request our friends, correspondents and exchanges in the Confederate States to direct everything to us—

"LOUISVILLE COURIER," Nashville, Tenn.

The Courier at Nashville.

Messrs. GREEN & CO., are the sole and exclusive agents of the Courier at Nashville. They will deliver it to regular subscribers and supply it to dealers and newsboys.

THE NEWS.

The telegraph informs us that the death of Vice-President Stephens is reported at Washington. This is doubtless a Republican calamity.

We are also advised that a W. D. Gallagher, Esq., of this city, Secretary Chase's confidential Secretary, has been appointed Collector of the Port of New Orleans, and has started for Cairo to enter upon his duties.

There will doubtless be a speedy movement of troops South, as General Sherman has already been started from Cairo. We are inclined to think that Mr. Gallagher will discover that a trip Southward on his mission will prove quite an unhealthy undertaking.

Important Financial Action of the Arkansas Convention.

The Arkansas convention, during the late session, adopted an ordinance to provide revenue for the State, whereby, among other things, it is provided that two millions of dollars in bonds, to be issued, in sums of five dollars and upwards.

To secure them, the public lands of the State, which there are at least seven millions of acres, as well as the taxes of the State, are pledged. This secures them from any future repudiation or even control by the legislature. These bonds will be redeemable in equal annual payments in payment for taxes. The coupons will be wholly receivable for taxes, and a sufficient amount of specie is, and always will be, reserved to meet the interest and redeem the coupons.

Virginia Members of the Confederate Congress.

The Virginia Convention, on the 21st instant, elected the members of the Confederate Congress of the Confederate States, which is to meet at Richmond on the 20th of July.

For the State at large: James A. Selden, and Wm. B. Preston.

Representatives: Mr. Tyler, Wm. H. McFarland, Robert A. Pryor, Robert Johnson, Walter Preston, Robert E. Scott, Charles W. Russell, James L. Mason, Thos. B. Boscawen, Wm. C. Rives, Jno. W. Brockenbrough, Walter R. Snider, and R. M. T. Hunter.

Convention at Carrollton.

The friends of neutrality and peace in the Southern District composed of the counties of Owen, Carroll, and Trimble, met in Convention at Carrollton on the first Monday in July to nominate a candidate for the Senate.

They have no doubt that our friends up there, fully alive to the importance of the issue, will put their best men in the field, and we know they will elect their candidate.

Probably our neighbors of the Courier themselves have some suggestions for the candidates of this view of the matter, for although they preceded a fine flagrant assault upon the State, they have not, as yet, elected a candidate for the Senate.

The Journal is a nearly correct information, that it is scarcely necessary to contradict the above statement; but, nevertheless, it requires only a paragraph, and we give it an emphatic denial.

We have no doubt that whenever Gov. MAGDOFFIN or GEN. BUCKNER has information of a character to justify them in believing that the neutrality of Kentucky has been violated, an investigation will be ordered, and the position of the State made good.

The funds necessary to pay the July interest upon the Kentucky State debt, have been placed in the Branch Bank of Kentucky, at Frankfort, and will, at once, be transferred to the city of New York. The amount is near one hundred thousand dollars.

The Mayville Express pronounces H. Charles S. Morehead's late speech as the most forcible, conclusive and convincing argument which has yet been made in the State, upon the issues now dividing the people.

A fine gun for sale.

Any one who is a Slave's Rifle can be accommodated by calling at our office. It carries an ounce ball, shoots with the Maynard primer or percussion caps, can be loaded and discharged fifteen times per minute, and will kill men or horses a mile. Caps, cartridges, powder, wads, and everything complete, with a good gun.

More than 100,000 men in Georgia have offered their services to General Sherman to fight for the Confederate States. Yet Submission editors brag about the people of that State being very anxious to go back to the old Union.

A large Southern flag was raised in Paducah last Friday in the presence of a large concourse of men. An elegant address was then made by H. S. Dillam, Esq.

A perfect avalanche of Southern papers were received at the Louisville Post Office yesterday, most of them, however, of quite ancient date.

The Brandon (Miss.) Republican says that one-half of the papers published in that State have been discontinued, through the want of money to carry them on.

The people of Mobile, Ala., Saturday, were luxuriating on green tea, tartar, red, fish, punch, and new home-made flour.

A few first class Col's. revolutionaries Smith & Wesson's cartridges for sale at W. D. Durringer's, corner of Fifth and Market streets.

No News—Arrival of Col. Steele—Sisters of Charity—Arrest of a Bourgeois, &c.

The week is almost half gone, and no battle has been fought yet. Why the enemy delay their attack so long is inexplicable. They have in our immediate vicinity a force double in numbers to ours, and if their courage was half equal to their numbers, they could come down upon us some cloudy night and devour our "contaminated band of rebel scoundrels."

We shall soon see what is to be done, and whether a band of mercenaries can defeat men who are gentlemen here, and fighting for the dearest interests of mankind.

There is nothing new, save hourly reports which cause survive the telling—The Lincolnites, however, are within but four or five miles of us, and approaching our camps from all sides.

The patient Tom Steele, Colonel of the Enrolled Militia of Woodstock county, reached here yesterday. He was fearful that he would arrive too late for the engagement, and was overjoyed when he learned that he was just in time for the first battle.

Our general hospital, which has not been conducted as efficiently as was desirable, bids fair to be rendered more serviceable in the future. Several sisters of charity have been sent to the front, and are already engaged in nursing department. It affords one no small degree of pleasure to observe the quiet and benign smile that illuminates the features of those good angels of mercy, as with soft tread and tender hands they minister to the lonely sick, and assuage the many woes and griefs of these invalid soldiers.

Yesterday Mr. Hilder, a well known citizen of Bourbon county, reached here from Hagerstown, Maryland, and was immediately placed under guard and taken before the military authorities. His explanation was perfectly satisfactory, and he returned to his evening to within the enemy's lines, happily pleased with his visit and our means of defense.

The Chesapeake & Ohio canal opposite here, has been opened in several places, the boats have been allowed to pass, and the movement of troops is greatly facilitated. The canal will be wholly receivable for taxes, and a sufficient amount of specie is, and always will be, reserved to meet the interest and redeem the coupons.

LOUISVILLE, KY.
WEDNESDAY MORNING, JUNE 26.

For State Treasurer,
GOBBIAS TERRY, of Todd.

The inauguration of this war was a terrible crime. It is destined to be commemorated by future generations as the greatest of the nineteenth century. The war grew out of sectional jealousy, and necessarily out of sectionalism. It may properly be considered as part and parcel of sectionalism, and as such, it is a crime of the first magnitude. It is a crime of the first magnitude, and it is a crime of the first magnitude.

That this wicked and bloody war did not grow out of sectionalism, or necessarily out of the separation of a portion of the States of the Union from the others, is established beyond controversy by the undeniable fact, that South Carolina withdrew in December and several other States in January, and yet there was no war during the administration of Mr. BUCHANAN, who did not terminate until two months after Lincoln was inaugurated, and that it was then brought on in violation of the Constitution. The President was sworn to support and preserve, and that there would have been no war had it not been commenced in violation of the Constitution and the law.

After the separation of seven States, and with full information in reference to every event attending their withdrawal, and after the attack on Sumter and its result were known, and after the President's war proclamation had been issued, the Journal thus fixed the responsibility and the guilt on the "unhappily" President who was placed in power by the "KENTUCKIANS OF THE COUNTRY."

Since writing the paragraphs above, the telegraphic report of the President's proclamation has reached us, and it is a relief to find that the policy announced in the proclamation deserves the unqualified condemnation of every American citizen. It is a policy not merely of a statesman but of a man. It is a policy not merely of a statesman but of a man. It is a policy not merely of a statesman but of a man.

Gen. Webb, of the Courier and Enquirer, talks. He cannot help talking. He was placed in the position of a statesman, and he is a statesman. He is a statesman, and he is a statesman. He is a statesman, and he is a statesman. He is a statesman, and he is a statesman.

The people of the North, "the enemies of the country," are the enemies of the country. They are the enemies of the country, and they are the enemies of the country. They are the enemies of the country, and they are the enemies of the country. They are the enemies of the country, and they are the enemies of the country.

The leaders in the great Northern conspiracy to break up the Union, destroy the Constitution, subvert the Government, and establish a military despotism at Washington, are evidently afraid that the Administration has become convinced of the impossibility of conquering the South, and will agree to a treaty recognizing the independence of the Confederate States.

It is not the slightest doubt that a permanent one man power is contemplated and will be established in the Union of the North; but Lincoln is only used as an instrument in the hands of those working to this end. He will not be the first permanent Dictator; though Dictatorial powers may be conferred on him for a time to prepare the way for subsequent measures.

The Journal thinks a citizen of Louisville should not be permitted to raise a Confederate States flag in this city, because it is satisfied that the United States flag would not be permitted to fly in Charleston or Richmond.

In other words, because the flag of a belligerent may not be permitted to fly in the enemy's country, therefore the enemy's flag should not be permitted in a neutral State.

If Kentucky is a neutral State, her people have determined she shall be, both belligerents must be treated alike, and the flag of the one may as properly be raised here as the flag of the other.

In either case, no objection being made by the authorities of Kentucky, the raising of the flag of either the United States or of the Confederate States in her limits involves a question of expediency or propriety for each person to decide for himself.

Desiring nothing done to increase excitement, or to provoke difficulties, we have on all occasions, when consulted, advised against the raising of flags here by either party; and we will with equal regard be regarded by our political friends.

Peace.

Peace may be had in twenty-four hours after the meeting of Congress on the 4th of July, and on that day the telegraph may be made an instrument of commerce, and the world the glorious theater of peace, and the promise of good will between the people of the two sections.

There is but one plan by which peace may be obtained, but it is practical, certain, simple, and honorable, and it is the only plan that the friends of peace can adopt. It is the only plan that the friends of peace can adopt. It is the only plan that the friends of peace can adopt.

We are in favor of this action by the Congress; the friends of Southern Rights are in favor of it; we are the friends of peace; all others are the enemies of peace and of the country.

The organ of the Administration in this city has found a "sensation" in a letter professing to be written from Georgia to New York and we suppose published in one of the Abolition papers in that city.

It is quite as reliable as the great mass of information obtained by the Journal, and as true in its statement of facts as the forged letter from Judge Ross, Lyons, or any other of the "Southern Rights" papers. We, of the Journal, are not sufficiently prejudiced against our Southern friends to abuse them on grounds so shadowy, absurd, and false. That's the Journal's proverb.

And now the last news from Europe—the news that Great Britain is not willing to permit the bringing of the prizes of war into her ports—perfectly settles the question. Great Britain is a "neutral," and she has no Southern sympathies. She is a neutral, and she has no Southern sympathies.

A responsible gentleman writing from Louisville gives an emphatic condemnation to the "Southern Rights" policy, and published, about the last treatment of "one of the best citizens of Kentucky" by the "Cumberland river and by the citizens of Louisville."

Lincoln's Rebellion Against the Constitution. Gen. Webb, of the Courier and Enquirer, talks. He cannot help talking. He was placed in the position of a statesman, and he is a statesman. He is a statesman, and he is a statesman. He is a statesman, and he is a statesman.

Starting, and revolutionary, and destructive of the country, is the policy of the Administration in supporting the "unhappily" President who was placed in power by the "KENTUCKIANS OF THE COUNTRY."

It is not the slightest doubt that a permanent one man power is contemplated and will be established in the Union of the North; but Lincoln is only used as an instrument in the hands of those working to this end. He will not be the first permanent Dictator; though Dictatorial powers may be conferred on him for a time to prepare the way for subsequent measures.

The Journal thinks a citizen of Louisville should not be permitted to raise a Confederate States flag in this city, because it is satisfied that the United States flag would not be permitted to fly in Charleston or Richmond.

In other words, because the flag of a belligerent may not be permitted to fly in the enemy's country, therefore the enemy's flag should not be permitted in a neutral State.

If Kentucky is a neutral State, her people have determined she shall be, both belligerents must be treated alike, and the flag of the one may as properly be raised here as the flag of the other.

In either case, no objection being made by the authorities of Kentucky, the raising of the flag of either the United States or of the Confederate States in her limits involves a question of expediency or propriety for each person to decide for himself.

Desiring nothing done to increase excitement, or to provoke difficulties, we have on all occasions, when consulted, advised against the raising of flags here by either party; and we will with equal regard be regarded by our political friends.

If trouble should come upon our city, we will be the friends of the friends of the section with whose interests and sympathies of our people are identified, and of course, the responsibility, no matter how terrible, will be on our heads.
